LOOKING AHEAD

As we approach 2025, CHMRC stands ready to build on our achievements and explore new opportunities to foster community resilience and advance health equity. The Solano Community Health Hub, which concluded its impactful journey in December 2024, served as a pivotal platform, connecting community-based organizations, individuals, and underserved populations with essential resources, programs, and partnerships. We take immense pride in the collaborative milestones we reached together—delivering health resources, education, and innovative initiatives to thousands of residents.

This transition marks an exciting evolution for CHMRC, as we embrace a more agile capacity-building model designed to empower communities to create their own sustainable spaces. Looking ahead, we are also thrilled to unveil The Bloomerang Network (TBN)—a dynamic virtual hub that brings together communities, organizations, agencies, and individuals from diverse sectors. Guided by a shared mission, TBN aims to ignite innovation, facilitate resource sharing, and collaboration in in public health reporting, community resilience, and the longevity economy.

Together with our volunteers, partners, and supporters, we are shaping a future where every community can thrive. The work ahead is exciting, and we invite you to join us!
